MILK PLANT IDEA POPULAR

COMMITTEE MAY BE NAMED TO INVESTIGATE.

FARMERS RECEPTIVE

Powdered Product Business Could Be Started For $41,000 But Butter Equipment Would Make It $140,000.

A committee to make a thorough investigation of the practicability of establishing a milk products manufacturing plant in Maryville, either by inducing a large concern to come here or by local capital, probably will be appointed as a result of the visit here yesterday of E. G. Bennett, state dairy commissioner.

At a conference which followed the Round Table luncheon at which Mr. Bennett spoke yesterday, the commissioner estimated that a plant of the best type for the manufacture of powdered milk could be installed for $41,000, but that the necessary building and the equipment for making of sweet cream butter probably would bring the total cost to $140,000 or $150,000.

3,000 Cows Necessary.

The milk production of at least 3,000 cows would be required for such a plant, it was stated. Regular routes would be established, on which the whole milk would be collected daily and brought to the plant. The plant would have a normal daily capacity of 50,000 pounds and a maximum capacity of 70,000 pounds.

For the butterfat content of the sweet milk, the farmer would be paid a premium, perhaps 10 cents a pound, over the prevailing price for sour cream.

Powdered milk as a product was suggested by Commissioner Bennett as more easily marketed than other milk products. Butter, he pointed out, is sold widely under trade names and less well known brands are not so easily disposed of. Other products are known by the plants which make them and new plants must build up a reputation. Powdered milk, on the other hand, is known rather by the process employed than by brand or factory. If the process is the proper one, the commissioner said, the market is easily found.

Sweet Cream Butter.

Sweet cream butter was recommended to utilize the cream separated from the milk. Butter made of sweet cream is increasing in popularity, the commissioner said, and the demand is constantly growing.

Some such plant would be welcomed by the farmers of Nodaway county, J. Ross Fleetwood, county agent, believes. He pointed out, however, that the new dairy development would merely supplement and not take the place of the already established lines of agricultural production.

"With the increase in the number of dairy cows in the county in recent months, some enlargement of the farmer's present market is likely to become an actual necessity," the county agent declared.

Could Be Done.

Herschel Houston of Burlington Junction, who heard Mr. Bennett yesterday, said today: "The biggest objection to dairying on the part of a number of farmers is that there is not a suitable market close. If a plant should be built at Maryville it is likely that a number of farmers would take up dairying."

Mr. Houston added that while some of the farmers are interested in dairying they have expressed themselves as opposed to investing heavily in a big herd. He believes a milk products plant could easily be established in this section.

"It would be a fine thing for the farmers of Nodaway County, and I don't see why they wouldn't take advantage of a proposition like that," he asserted. "I think most of the merchants would be in favor of it, too. Many farmers of the county don't realize the advantage of dairying because this has been a strong corn community."

A Good Thing.

Ernest Wray, another of the farmer guests at the meeting, believes that a plant here would be a good thing. "We need a channel through which to dispose of our production," he said. "Something ought to be done in that line. If the business men will back it and the farmer get into it and back something on this order, it would be fine. The farmer would like to get a little more money than he is getting now and it seems

Will Speak Here

The first thing Miss Cornelia S. Adair of Richmond, Va., did after she was elected president of the National Education Association at its recent meeting in Seattle was to accept an invitation by Uel W. Lamkin, president of the State Teachers College here, to speak in Maryville at the time of the annual teachers meeting this fall.

Miss Adair is the first "classroom teacher" to win the honor bestowed upon her by the educators of the nation. Incidentally America's 25,000,000 pupils can give a cheer, for Miss Adair doesn't believe spanking helps much.

A BLUEGRASS MEET CALLED

MARKETING PLAN TO BE DISCUSSED AT MAITLAND.

PRICE UNSATISFACTORY

Proposal to Erect a Thresher or Cleaner In Northwest Missouri May Come Up Friday Night.

A meeting will be held at the Ford garage in Maitland at 8 o'clock Friday night, to attempt to formulate a marketing plan for bluegrass seed, either threshed or rough.

Northwest Missouri has the finest crop of seed that has ever been harvested and the price offered by the different buyers has not been satisfactory to the growers.

The proposition of erecting a thresher or clearer at some point in Northwest Missouri will be discussed with the view of making a more stable market for seed.

A number of prominent bluegrass seedmen will be present and it is expected that a large number of growers will be there.

Everyone interested in bluegrass seed should attend the meeting, those in charge declare.

Banker Falls Down Stairs; Sprains Back

W. F. Phares May Be Confined To His Home For A Week As Result Of Accident This Morning.

Will F. Phares, vice-president of the Farmers Trust Company, today was confined to his home at 1023 North Main street, suffering with a wrenched back. It was said at the bank it would probably be a week before he would be able to attend to his duties there.

Mr. Phares fell down the stairs at his home this morning and was taken to the St. Francis hospital for an examination for broken bones.

Officers of the bank said Mr. Phares "got up too early," as it was 6:30 a. m. when he tumbled down the stairs from the second floor.

Mexico Boasts of a Mathematical Prodigy

Sixteen Months Old Boy Can Count to Ten; Son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Richards.

Mexico, Mo., July 14.—Harry Oscar Richards, eighteen-months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Richards, of this city, can count on becoming a mathematical prodigy.

At the age of sixteen months, Harry Oscar, was counting to ten without a mistake, and in the past sixty days, he has added the second "ten" to his store of numbers.

N. E. A. HEAD TO BE HERE

NEW PRESIDENT ACCEPTS INVITATION TO SPEAK IN FALL.

LAMKIN COMES HOME

Local Educator Is Made Member of Resolutions Committee of National Association.

Miss Cornelia S. Adair, the newly elected president of the National Education Association, will come to Maryville next fall to speak before the annual meeting of the Northwest Missouri Teachers Association. This announcement was made this morning by Uel W. Lamkin, president of the State Teachers College.

Mr. Lamkin returned to Maryville yesterday from Seattle, where the N. E. A. convention was held last week. The College president returned on the Canadian Pacific Railroad, stopping one day in Banff, Alberta.

Miss Adair will speak in Maryville on October 14. It will be quite an honor for the teachers association and for the school here to have the N. E. A. president as one of its chief speakers. Miss Adair accepted the invitation immediately after she was unanimously elected to head the educational body.

Mr. Lamkin spoke three times at the N. E. A. convention. He spoke once before the general assembly, once before the association of state secretaries, and once over the radio.

Mr. Lamkin is the Missouri representative on the N. E. A. resolutions committee for next year. During the last year he was a member of the executive committee. He was temporary chairman of the resolutions committee when it was organized this year.

Mr. Lamkin said that last Sunday, residents of Maryville were suffering from the heat, he was traveling wrapped in a heavy wool blanket over his overcoat. Banff is 6,000 feet above sea level and is as far north of Minneapolis as that city is north of Maryville.

The reception given Dr. Henry Suzalle by the convention was one of the outstanding features of the meeting. Mr. Lamkin said, Dr. Suzzalo, center of a stormy controversy arising from his ousting as president of the University of Washington, has spoken here.

Kappa Omicron Phi's to Go on Field Trip

College Organization to Make Observation of Work Done in Kansas City Industrial Kitchens.

Twenty-six members of the Kappa Omricon Phi sorority, the home economics organization at the State Teachers College, and Miss Hettie Anthony, head of the department, will leave Maryville tomorrow morning for a field trip to Kansas City. They will charter a bus for the trip, and will return late tomorrow evening.

While in Kansas City, the students will visit industrial kitchens and make observations of the work done in them. They will also visit the John Taylor Store where they will receive instructions on textiles and laces. Before returning, the trippers will visit several factories in the city.

Mutual Insurance Co. Holds Meeting Here

A business meeting of the board of directors of the Farmers Mutual Fire and Lightning Insurance Company of this county, was held this afternoon in the county court room of the courthouse.

The directors had "nothing for publication," according to the secretary, Miss Iuka Shiel, of Burlington Junction.

The directors present were James L. Hepburn, and W. L. Moorhead, Hopkins; H. T. Hooker and William Blackford, Maryville; Judge William Woods, Burlington Junctio[n]; E. W. Bishop, Ravenwood; R. B. Cox, Graham; and B. M. Wilson, Barnard.

Wilcox-Rockford Groups to Broadcast

Orchestras Will Be Heard Over KSO At 7:30 o'Clock Tomorrow Night.

The Wilcox Orchestra visited the Rockford Orchestra at the Rockford church last night and the two orchestras held a joint practice. They will broadcast from station KSO, Clarinda, at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night.

George Hepburn Has Oats Shoulder High

Harvest Well Under Way in His Vicinity, Says Hopkins Man.—Corn Doing Well Now.

George Hepburn, who lives near Hopkins, said today he had twenty-five acres of oats that stand a little short of being shoulder high and are about ready to cut. The oat harvest in his vicinity is getting well underway, he said, although there are some fields a little too green to cut.

Corn is coming along well, he said. About a half inch rain visited his vicinity night before last. He said they did not get any rain at the time of the recent hail storm, which injured corn in various sections of the country.

Mr. Hepburn, with his father, J. L. Hepburn, was here today to attend a board meeting of the Farmers Mutual Insurance Company.

A. T. ESTES TO OPEN GROCERY

LEASES SOUTH HALF OF SCHUMACHER BUILDING.

21 YEARS EXPERIENCE

Location Has Been Used for Similar Business for Thirty Years.—Remodeling Is Begun.

A. T. Estes today announced he would open a grocery store August 1 in the building known as the Schumacher building, Second and Main streets, owned by M. Sturm.

Mr. Estes has signed a three-year's lease for the south half of the building. Mr. Sturm has let a contract to Logan Brothers to put in a partition and a front entrance, and carpenters began work today.

A complete grocery line, including fresh fruits and vegetables will be carried, Mr. Estes said. Free delivery service will be maintained. Mr. Estes said he wasn't certain whether he would carry meats, but would determine this after he becomes established.

Mr. Estes is experienced in the grocery business, having been connected with stores with a grocery department for twenty-one years. For the last seven years he was with the Remus Merchantile Co., in the grocery department, and only this summer severed his connection with this concern.

He is opening his business in a location where there has been a grocery for more than thirty years. Schumacher and Sons conducted a grocery in the building for many years, and were followed by Schumacher and Rowley, who closed out this spring.

Mr. Estes has purchased some of the equipment that already was in the building, including the counters, cases, coffee grinder and desk. Other equipment is to be added by Mr. Estes before August 1 and Mr. Sturm will install shelves and redecorate the south side of the building. Mr. Sturm said the north side of the building has not been rented.

The rear of the building is being changed, so that the southwest quarter, now occupied by the Partridge produce station will have more room, while the Estes store will have a room 22 by 90 feet.

With the opening of the Estes Grocery there will be twelve concerns in the city that handle groceries.

Richard Clay Wilson, son of R. C. Wilson, cashier of the Citizens Bank of Guilford, and Mrs. Wilson, underwent an operation for the removal of his tonsils at the St. Francis Hospital this morning.

Mrs. C. D. Farnan and daughter of Guilford were in Maryville yesterday.

POWERS MAKE VIEWS PUBLIC

ONLY OBSTACLE TO AGREEMENT IS ON CRUISERS.

JAPAN, U. S. IN ACCORD

Japanese Favor Ratio of 12-12-8 — Hugh Gibson, American Delegate, Summarizes Situation.

Geneva, July 14.—Delegates of three great powers—the United States, Great Britain and Japan—met today and discussed openly their naval needs with a view to limiting construction of vessels, could they agree upon a satisfactory formula.

Hugh S. Gibson, American minister to Switzerland and chairman of the conference, which has been sitting three weeks, summarized the situation at the plenary session today as follows:

"We feel that no serious obstacle exists to reaching an early agreement by the three powers relative to destroyers and submarines, provided an agreement can be reached on cruisers."

The United States, he said, was in such close agreement with Japan on relative cruiser tonnage that he was sure they could arrange an amicable treaty.

Crucial Point Reached.

Geneva, July 14.—Today's plenary session of the naval arms limitation commission was expected to show definitely whether an agreement between the three powers on cruisers will be ultimately possible at the present conference. Otherwise it may be necessary to postpone the matter until the November session of the League's preparatory disarmament commission.

No definite decision, however, was expected today, as W. C. Bridgeman, head of the British delegation, was understood to be returning to London immediately after the plenary session to discuss the situation in full with the British cabinet.

All three delegations insisted before today's plenary session that progress had been made in harmonizing their differences.

12-12-8 Ratio Favored.

Japan, it was learned, is disposed to accept the British viewpoint of twelve 10,000 ton cruisers each for Great Britain and the United States and eight for Japan, but neither she nor the United States is willing to accept England's figures on total tonnage.

The United States delegation was still insisting on eighteen 10,000-ton cruisers, which Great Britain refuses to accept.

The Americans and Japanese insist that if the smaller type vessels are accepted, they must be equipped with 8-inch guns, but this does not meet with British approval.

SCHOOLMA'AM TO COAST FOR HAWAIIAN HOP

Miss Mildred Doran, 22, Would Be the First Woman to Fly From San Francisco.

Chicago, July 14.—Miss Mildred Doran, 22-year-old Flint, Mich., school teacher, who aspires to be the first woman to fly from San Francisco to Hawaii, was to take off from Checkerboard field today for Tulsa, Okla., on the third leg of her flight from Flint to the coast.

The pretty school teacher carried a small overnight bag, some maps and a powder compact as equipment.

She will act as navigator for Auggy Pedlar, pilot of the biplane they will use. They are entered in the San Francisco-to-Hawaii race which starts August 11.

Achievement Pins to North Prairie Club

Achievement pins are being sent out today from the office of J. Ross Fleetwood, county agricultural extension agent, to the members of the Health and First Aid club of the North Prairie district, near Elmo.

The members of the club who will receive the pins, having completed their work, are Lucille Twaddle, James Younger, Alene Honan, Opal Lane, Mary Louise Fecher, Grace Ecker, May Honan, Verlie Ecker, Hyllis Pearce, Marjorie Irvin, Thelma Ecker, Verda Younger, Charles Younger, Zelma Ecker, Anna Mae Twaddle and Glenn Twaddle.

Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Hays of Skidmore were Maryville visitors today.

SMITH AND BRONTE TAKE OFF FOR HONOLULU TODAY

Takes Off Today

Flier now over Pacific seeks to be first civilian pilot to fly to Honolulu from San Francisco.

AFTER FALSE START, PERFECT DEPARTURE IS MADE.

LEAVE OAKLAND 10:30

Civilians Would Lower Time in Air; After 9 Minutes Up, Head Back for Farewell.

San Francisco, July 14.—The Federal Telegraph Company at 12:12 o'clock this afternoon received the following message from the Smith-Bronte monoplane:

"Our position 100 miles southwest of San Francisco. Our altitude 2,000 feet. Foggy below."

Oakland Airport, San Leandro Bay, Cal., July 14.—The civilian challenge to the once conquered Pacific airway began at 10:39 a. m., today. After one false start, causing a return to the head of the 1¼ mile long runway, the small monoplane piloted by Ernest L. Smith made a perfect departure from the field.

He rose slowly, ascending to about 700 feet before the silver gray wings of his plane faded from sight in the haze over San Francisco Bay. With him was Emory B. Bronke, navigator, holder of a shipmaster's license.

First Civilians.

They hope to be the first civilians to fly from San Francisco to Honolulu. Their second hope was to lower the time in which Lieutenants Lester J. Maitland and Albert F. Hegenberger made the flight. The army fliers, first to span the Pacific, landed in Honolulu 25 hours and 49 minutes after departure from this airfield.

No ceremony attended Smith's actual take-off, presumably at the flier's request. Nine minutes after he disappeared in the haze, his plane, City of Oakland, was headed back toward Oakland airport and circled the field. He descended to an aititude of 200 feet. He waved to the crowd, who cheered. Five planes accompanied him in his last farewell to the field.

Swinging gracefully around the plane headed once more for the bay, gaining altitude rapidly.

Wave to Crowds.

The pilot and his navigator smiled broadly as they waved to the crowd. They were evidently not perturbed by the ill fortune which had attended the first two take-offs of the monoplane.

On Smith's first attempt, June 28, a short time after the take-off of the Fokker, Bird of Paradise, he was forced to return after nine minutes to the field, due to a cracked wind deflector.

Four homing pigeons were carried by the City of Oakland instead of the two first decided upon.

TWO SHERIFFS BEFORE JUDGE

COLE COUNTY OFFICER "KIND" TO CHARGES.

PRISONERS ON STAND

Johnson County Defendants Deny "Coddling"—Other Pleads Ignorance of Law.

Kansas City, Mo., July 14.—Two sheriffs and a deputy sheriff of Missouri counties, charged with "coddling" federal prisoners held in their jails, appeared before Federal Judge Albert Reeves, today to answer charges against them.

Several witnesses were brought into the charges against Mason M. Lane, sheriff of Johnson county, his deputy, Harry Lane and L. C. Withaup, of Cole county.

Withaup's case was the first called. It was indicated by Withaup's attorney that his defense would be that Withoup was kind to prisoners and was not strict with them because he did not think they were "bad."

Norman Cone and Perry Easterbrook, formerly held in the Cole county jail, were the first witnesses. Cone testified he entered the Jefferson City jail in December after pleading guilty to violation of the prohibition law. He said he was removed from the jail soon after Christmas and went to the sheriff's home. He occupied a room there until released Cone said, but declared he had never given Withaup money.

He was permitted to visit his sick mother in Kansas City and was permitted to stay with his wife for a time, unaccompanied by a deputy, he testified.

The sheriff of Johnson county and his deputy, his brother, have filed blanket denials on the charges against them.

Withaup in his answer declared if he had violated the law in permitting freedom to prisoners it was ignorance of the law and not violation of his duties as sheriff.

Secretary Hoover to Visit in Kansas City

New Office of Commerce Department Being Opened There—To Visit Coolidge in South Dakota.

Washington, July 14.—Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover will leave Saturday for a western trip with the first stop at Kansas City, where a new office of his department is being opened.

He will then proceed to Rapid City, S. D., to visit the President. Hoover will spend nearly a month on the Pacific coast attending to commerce department activities including several fish hatchery questions mostly in the San Francisco area.

He will return to New Orleans to begin a flood survey September 1.

Visitors From California.

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Murdock of Los Angeles, Cal., arrived in Maryville early this week for an extended visit with their son, Dr. S. S. Murdock, and family.

Heavy Rain Causes Wreck in Oklahoma

Nine Coaches of Missouri-Kansas-Texas Go Off Rails but Remain Standing.

Oklahoma City, July 14.—A heavy rain, washing ballast from beneath rails and ties, caused derailment of a Missouri-Kansas-Texas passenger train, northbound, five miles north of Atoka, at 5 a. m. today, but no one was injured according to confirmed reports at the railroad offices here.

The traffic department said the train was running slow at the time of the derailment; that nine day coaches left the rails but remained standing and that the train would be rerailed and moved by noon today.

The road through the Atoka region is double tracked and the accident therefore caused no great delay.

Baker Paroles Two From State Prison

Jefferson City, July 14.—Pearl Duffy, 23, serving five years from St. Louis county for highway robbery, and Howard Brown, negro, serving fifty years from Jasper county for rape, were paroled today by Governor Sam Baker.

Duffy had served eighteen months and Brown eight years.

Weather

Partly cloudy today and Friday, probably local thundershowers in south portion; not much change in temperature.

THE WRONG NUMBER.

The Chicago Evening Post Tells of a citizen who, after a blundering summons to the telephone in the middle of the night, determined to do something about it. He immediately called up a high official of the Illinois Bell Telephone Company, whereupon this conversation ensued:

"Hello!" growled the sleepy magnate.

"Are you an official of the telephone company?" asked the voice at the other end, without a smile.

"Yes. What can I do for you?"

"Tell me," answered the telephone subscriber, "how it feels to get out of bed at 2 o'clock to answer a wrong number.

It was a good stunt. It worked—for that time. Telephone service in Chicago is said to have been improved by it. But such a remedy is not to be generally recommended. It might give some telephone officials apoplexy, and that wouldn't help any. Besides, the telephone company 'most anywhere might come right back and tell the people razzing it, with perfect truth, the operators don't call wrong numbers any oft ner than subscribers give them wrong numbers.

THE GENTLE PEDESTRIAN.

"I do not think," writes an old-fashioned citizen, "that I exaggerate the charms of pedestrianism, our need as a people to cultivate the art. I think it would tend to soften the national manners, to teach us the meaning of leisure, to acquaint us with the charms of the open air, to strengthen and foster the tie between the race and the land. No one else looks out upon the world so kindly and charitably as the pedestrian; no one else gives and takes so much from the country he passes through."

True enough, and wisely spoken. But this doesn't necessarily apply to the city pedestrian, or the pedistrian on the main highway. The modern pedestrian, to cultivate his art and maintain a gentle and generous character, has to keep off the road; and motorists see to it that he is kept off.

"OUTCASTS" IN JAPAN.

Gen. Tanaka, premier of Japan, has thrown a shock into Japanese society. He has entertained in his official residence three members of the "eta" outcast class. Worse still, he has had the audacity to introduce them as fellow guests of three distinguished members of the Japanese nobility, a marquis and a prince.

It seems to be regarded in Japan as worse than President Roosevelt's celebrated entertainment of Booker T. Washington in the White House, which produced such a sensation and considerable criticism in its time.

No doubt it was a dreadful thing for the premier to do. Americans, however, will want to know something about those "eta" guests, and why they are treated as outcasts.

It appears that their status is caused by "defilement by blood, by death and bodily mutilation." That is, they are persons who, in their occupations, are obliged to shed blood, as in killing animals for food, and to handle the bodies of the dead, as undertakers do, and to tan hides and perform other "impure" tasks.

Strange, indeed, is social and religious prejudice, which makes outcasts of men and women who devote their lives to performing necessary services for others.

MUSEUM MOVIES.

The valuable work of natural history museums is greatly advanced by the use of the moving picture camera. In addition to the stuffed and pictured exhibits in glass cases there are now movies showing wild animals in their native haunts, exploring parties in regions remote from civilization, salmon leaping up waterfalls, volcanoes in action and other marvels hitherto visible only to travelers.

Another phase of museum work made more impressive and interesting by the movie is the reconstruction of such treasures at a 30,000-year-old mastadon or other ancient beasts. By means of the movie camera the public may watch the expert preparator placing the bones in their proper positions, until the great skeleton, dug up in fragments, becomes a unified whole.

Lectures illustrated with such pictures become more interesting and intelligible. And to quite a large section of the public they are just as exciting and enthralling as many of the feature pictures of the movie theatre.

STELLAR EARRINGS.

Hollywood film stars, one learns, are wearing earrings again.

Adoring flappers may welcome details. "Instead of the long drop earrings that fall from the lobe of the ears to the shoulders, a circular effect is smart. Although the designs are smaller than last year's, the most scintillating are being used. One player features the crescent moon in a pair of diamonds and platinum ornaments."

The goddesses of Hollywood may run less to genuine jewels if their employers put over the salary cuts recently announced, but there are always good imitations to be had by them and, fortunately, by their admirers.

Let them go ahead now and wear rings in their noses and barrettes in their lower lips, if they want to. If they do, thousands of worshipful young persons will think it charming and do likewise.

How To Get Off The Sucker List.

There is one man in this state who has had his name taken off the sucker list of some of the mail order houses that have been making a practice of sending out unordered merchandise.

Not long ago this gentleman, a doctor by profession, received a box of neckties with a letter telling him to keep the ties and remit a dollar or return the package. Instead of following the instructions the doctor sat down and sent the same house a few pills, enclosing them in the letter and telling the receiver that they were recommended for "gall." He also told them that the value of these pills was two dollars, and that he would give the senders credit for the necktie bill of one dollar and all they would have to remit to him would be the additional dollar.

He was requested to return the ties. The doctor then replied and told the writer it was a half block to the nearest mail box and that he always charged $2.50 for leaving the office, so if the writer would send the amount of two dollars and a half he would mail the ties back.

The correspondence was closed when the sender of the ties wrote and told the doctor that he had taken his name off their list.—Butler Press.

Exports for 1st Half Year Exceed Imports

United States' Favorable Trade Balance Is 240 Millions—For Fiscal Year More Than $700,000,000.

Washington, July 14.—United States exports in the first six months of 1927 exceeded imports by $240,758,000, the Commerce Department announced today.

Exports were valued at $2,368,734,000 and imports at $2,127,976,000.

This favorable balance of trade compares with a $95,186,000 unfavorable balance for the first six months of last year.

Exports for June were valued at $359,000,000 and imports at exactly the same figure.

This was the lowest month of the year for exports, with the exception of February, while in imports, March and April exceeded June figures.

For the fiscal year just ended the compilation showed a favorable balance of more than $700,000,000, exports being $4,970,451,000 and imports $4,266,825,000.

Loren S. Schnabel to Position at Bethany

Former Music Instructor Here Has Been at Kemmerer, Wyo., for Last Two Years.

Loren J. Schnabel, formerly instructor of music and manual training at Maryville high school, will be supervisor of music at the public schools at Bethany, according to the Bethany Clipper this week.

Mr. Schnabel was music instructor here from 1920 to 1925, and from here went to Kemmerer, Wyo., where he was supervisor of music. He had been re-elected for this year's work at Kemmerer, but wanted to get back to the middle states, as he prefers the climate here, the Bethany Clipper said. He will succeed J. M. Dillinger at Bethany.

Mr. Schnabel's application was given favorable consideration by the Bethany board of education and a contract has been sent to him by Superintendent F. E. Patrick. It is not known what date he will take up his work at Bethany.

The Clipper said, in commenting upon Mr. Schnabel:

"Mr. Schnabel is known by a number of Bethany people and his musical organizations have been heard by those attending the Northwest Missouri contests at Maryville. He was music supervisor in the Maryville schools and conducted school bands and orchestras. His orchestra took first place in the district contests every year except one while he was there. Other instrumental groups and chorus also scored heavily in the district events.

"For two years he has been music supervisor at Kemmemer, Wyo. He built up a 55-piece band and 45-piece orchestra from new material. His band and orchestra are playing a higher grade of music than usually used in the Maryville contests, he says. Kemmerer had neither a band nor orchestra when he went there.

"Mr. Schnabel was graduated from the University high school in Columbia and attended one year at the University of Missouri. He received a degree of B. # TIGERS MAY MEET BEARS

BREAK BETWEEN M. U. AND WASHINGTON NEARLY OVER.

OCT. 15 LIKELY DATE

Authorities Believe Schools Should Renew Relations for Good of Conference.

Columbia, Mo., July 14.—It appeared probable here today that the "break" which resulted in the cession of all athletic relations between Washington University of St. Louis, and the University of Missouri would be "patched up" and the two schools meet on th gridiron again this fall. Athletic relations between the two schools were severed last fall following charges and counter charges of unsportsmanlike conduct at a football game here.

C. L. Brewer, Missouri Athletic director, when questioned here regarding the possibility of renewal of relations, admitted that negotiations toward that end had been started informally. He recently returend from a trip to St. Louis where he discussed the question with Dr. W. P. Edmunds, director of Athletics at Washington University, he said.

October 15 is the date said to have been agreed upon for the engagement between the two teams on the gridiron this fall, probably because that date is the only one open on the Missouri schedule. Washington made a bid for this date at the meeting of the Schedule Committee of the Missouri Valley schools last winter, but Missouri refused to consider it at the time.

However, several obstacles will have to be removed before the two teams can meet. Washington has a game scheduled with Lombard College of Galesburg, Ill., for Oct. 15. The Missouri Tigers already have eight games scheduled, the limit under Missouri Valley Conference rules.

It is understood, however, that conference authorities have hinted that they believed it would be for the best interest of the conference for the Tigers and Bears to renew relations, and it is probable that they will make an exception of the rules to permit Missouri a ninth game.

"Crime News Hour" Will Be Started

Jefferson City Station Would Assist In Re-Capturing Escaped Convicts.

Jefferson City, Mo., July 14.—A special daily "crime news hour" is to be a feature of radio programs over state radio station WOS in the Capitol here, it has been announced by the State Marketing Bureau, in charge of the station.

Closer co-operation between state prison authorities and sheriffs in the re-capture of escaped convicts is planned in a letter mailed to all sheriffs and police officers of the state.

A definite daily hour for broadcasting escape news is to be decided upon. Sheriffs will make arrangements to listen in at that time and also to wire state authorities of any escape from county jails. The plan of immediate announcement of prison escape is to be continued over the station.

Milk Plant Idea Popular

that they are putting more money into communities where these plants have been established. I feel that this ought to be worked on and should be looked into."

Advantages Here.

Emmett Scott said: "That looks like a good proposition. It would be fine if it could be worked out. It could be done here if any place. This is one of the best districts in the United States to work such a plan out. There are more advantages here than many places.

"Of course it is quite a big question to finance such a business. If it can be financed, that is the big thing. To have a plant and increase the number of cows to make it profitable to run a milk products factory here have to be considered. The market would be here. It is a good proposition."

At the left, hat in hand, is Bert Acosta, then Lieutenant George Noville, Byrd and Bernt Balchen; in the second row, between Noville and Byrd, is Chamberlin, and between Byrd and Balchen, Levine. Club members are grouped behind them.

THIS CHECK STIRRED INDIANA

Copyright, 1927, the Indianapolis Times.

This is the check that, when published in the Indianapolis Times exclusively, turned Indiana politics upside down. It is the first evidence offered from the long-sought "little black box" of D. C. Stephenson, former Indiana klan leader, who is now serving a prison life sentence term for the murder of Madge Oberholzer. Stephenson's petition for clemency recently was denied, and this was followed by the threat to expose alleged crookedness in state politics.

This and That

When Adam in bliss
Asked Eve for a kiss,
She puckered her lips with a coo,
With looks quite ecstatic,
She answered emphatic,
I don't care, Adam, if I do.

The World Friendship Circle here holds the record for making Christmas plans early. Already the members have had a Christmas party! There was a real Christmas tree almost on the Fourth of July. The party was held Tuesday at the home of Eleanor Nicholas, East Third street. The gifts will be sent to a mission school and will arrive there just in time for Christmas.

Daughter: "The preacher just phoned and said he was coming to call this afternoon."

Mother: "Gracious. We must make a good impression. Give the baby the hymn-book to play with."

Daughter: "Papa, is the stork the bird with the long bill?"

Father: "No, my daughter, the doctor is the bird you mean."

When you hark to the voice of the knocker,
As you list to his hammer fall,
Remember the fact
That the knocking act
Requires no brains at all.

When you list to the growl of the growler,
As you hark to his ceaseless growl
You will please recall
That a dog is all
It takes for an endless howl.

The knocker, and likewise the grower
Fault-finders, large and small,
What do they need
For each day's deed?
No brains, no sense—just gall.

Heat travels faster
Than cold we are told;
And the reason we know is
We've often caught cold.

Bob Jenks upon his wedding day
Was a most excited creature;
He handed his bride the marriage fee,
And tried to kiss the preacher.

E. G. Bennett, dairy expert, who visited in Maryville yesterday, told this one:

Two girls from the city went to visit on the farm. One of them saw a water tank:

"Oh look, there's the cow's bathtub," she said.

The second girl saw some milk cans over in the barn. "Oh, look, there's the cows' nest."

The first girl saw a young calf partaking of food. "Oh, look," she cried, "there's a little cow eating up a big one."

A lot of persons have been wondering "what that large stack is" on the William Armstrong lawn on East First street.

Jimmy Armstrong explained today that it is bluegrass seed that his father has bought and gathered up.

Magician Proves Public Can be Fooled---and That They Like it

Glendower—I can call spirits from the vasty deep.

Hotspur—Why, so can I, or can any man. But will they come when you do call for them? Henry IV.

Two thousand years ago Petronius wrote, "The world wants to be deceived." Last night Paul Fleming, magician, proved that the statement still holds true as far as a Maryville audience is concerned. For two hours this man—university professor in the winter, magician in the summer—kept nearly a thousand persons mystified and amused, and finally sent them home wondering how he did it.

Perhaps it was the element of "like to be fooled." At any rate, the performance, which was scheduled to begin at 8 o'clock last night, had to be held off twenty minutes because the line in front of the ticket box stretched halfway down the stairs from the second floor at the College. Certainly the entertainment last night was the drawing card of the year, and certainly the patrons were well entertained.

Paul Fleming is a different type of magician from any who has appeared in Maryville. His was not the boastful, hand-is-quicker-than-the-eye kind of a program. Paul Fleming did not work so rapidly that it was impossible for the audience to follow the movements of his hands. Every person in the College auditorium saw every movement of the program—that he was supposed to see.

For those who were not present it would be impossible to tell you everything that went on. Enough to say that there were several tricks of the magician's art which were eye-openers to all present. Although many of the tricks were difficult, they were all executed with finesse. Fleming didn't have so many great tricks, but all that he did were done well.

The program was divided into three parts, the second of which was a sort of expose of spiritualism and mind reading. In this section of the entertainment, the magician reproduced slate writing, mind reading, and finally the manifestation of a spirit. And all the while he made it perfectly clear that the whole thing was trickery.

All Doing It Now.

The performance ended with a neat trick in change of identity, for which almost everyone had a possible solution, and which no one in the audience likely could duplicate without a great deal of practice. Two assistants as clever as those who worked with Fleming last night.

Today many of the younger bloods are surreptitiously tucking one handkerchief up a sleeve, putting another into a pocket and producing the former with a professional air which is prevalent always after a magician has been to town.

Nebraskans Object to Compulsory "Gym"

Grand Island, Neb., July 14.—A petition with 2,276 names on it asking that gymnasium classes in the Grand Island public schools be made optional with the students is in the hands of a special committee bearing the long scroll bearing names of protesting patrons, presented it, as to what action could be taken. It was suggested by one member that the compulsory gymnasium ruling in the school is somewhat elastic, inasmuch as pupils are excused upon presentation of a doctor's certificate testifying that their health is not such as to make the exercise safe and desirable.

JUNIORS WILL GIVE RECITAL

YOUNG PIANO PUPILS TO BE PRESENTED NEXT WEEK.

ENSEMBLE STRESSED

Program to Demonstrate Marked Change in Methods of Instruction in Last Few Years.

Mrs. Carrie Margaret Caldwell, piano instructor in the junior piano department of the Conservatory of Music at the State Teachers College, will present her pupils in an ensemble program in the auditorium at the College, Wednesday evening of next week at 7:15. The program next Wednesday is one of several given during the year. No charge will be made and the public is invited to attend.

The methods in junior piano instruction have undergone quite a change in the last few years, and it is surprising to see the work which juniors now do. Recitals of the nature of the one to be given next week are a part of the program of piano teaching and give the pupils an opportunity to express themselves and to gain the experience of public appearance.

The program itself is of particular interest in that it is composed almost entirely of ensemble numbers. Ensemble playing has much about it that is worth while, it is pointed out. It develops a sense of rhythm and improves the performer's sight-reading. Besides these, ensemble work has a certain social value.

Following is the program:

TELL 'EM TO SELL 'EM.

Out at Cozad, Neb., a town of only a few hundred inhabitants, Fred W. Anderson has a store that does an annual business of $300,000. Speaking to the National Retail Grocers' Association at Omaha last week, Mr. Anderson attributed his ability to build up this big business in a town of 1200 to his carefully planned advertising campaigns. Urging the importance of printers' ink as a means of reaching the people, Mr. Anderson said: "If you don't tell 'em you can't sell 'em."

Sharkey Is Favorite of Fight Fans Here, With Interest Slight

Local dopsters are "fighting shy" of giving opinions on the outcome of the much heralded prize fight that will take place a week from today in Yankee stadium, New York City.

The contestants, Messrs. Jack Dempsey and Jack Sharkey, will take the canvass mat that night to see who will next face the heavyweight champion, Gene Tunney, so most of the fight followers here believe the fracas will be on the square.

The dope here seems to follow the trend of opinion of Eastern men who have given odds on Sharkey. But the interest here is at a lower ebb over the Sharkey-Dempsey go than over any similar fight since Dempsey first wore the crown.

Some fans here doubt that Dempsey can "come back," and included in this list is Theo Robinson, who said, however, he had not paid much attention to the forthcoming battle. "Stix" Castillo says he will put his nickles either way, but believes Sharkey will come out on top. He says opinion is divided among those discussing the fight down at the Castillo-Garten-Millikan place.

The boys at the fire station are not paying much attention to the bout, Claud Stults said, and he remarked that he hadn't heard much discussion over the affair.

Paul Kuchs hopes that Sharkey wins, but has been discussing mostly Sharkey's "derivation," and at last was enlightened by Henry Farrell's article in the Democrat-Forum lately, which said Sharkey comes from American-Lithuanian parentage. Rumor had it Sharkey was a Jew and Paul had been waiting for authorities to give the answer.

Dempsey still has somewhat of a follower in Dick Tulloch, who thinks if Dempsey can get back to his status when he whipped Willard, Sharkey will never get the chance to meet Tunney.

And so it goes—with sentiment mostly for Sharkey. One reason is that Dempsey put up a miserable showing last fall against Tunney; and Sharkey has many followers—because he was in the navy and champion of the Atlantic fleet.

But, then, nearly everyone says Sharkey will find his waterloo in Tunney.

The general opinion that Dempsey has "gone back" was explained as follows in the Chillicothe Tribune:

"Although inspired by a different motive than the lady who wrecked the physical prowess of Sampson, Estelle Taylor, the actress, proved the Delilah to the pugilistic ambitions of Jack Dempsey," said Dudley Ewing, biblical scholar and doper extraordinary of winners of forthcoming fistic events, in discussing the outcome of the Sharkey-Dempsey battle this morning.

"The former champion's star started dimming immediately he romped away on his honeymoon," he continued. "With his thoughts diverted from the fight game by the call of love and romance, and the attendant series of high life parties and other social functions at which he was supposed to pose as lion, his vitality gradually weakened and finally left him, as the recent debacle at Philadelphia furnished ample proof, almost a physical wreck.

"I'm not crifisizing Mrs. Dempsey, mind you," he said in conclusion. "She is just a normal woman."

SHARKEY HAS HAD BEATINGS

LIFE OF JACK SHARKEY.

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

CHAPTER IV

New York, July 14.—Boxers in the Navy do not have to bother much about training. They don't get time. Training has to be done out of working hours and the working hours are long. The work makes them hard but it makes them hungry also and there never was a gob, a marine or a doughboy who would admit that he ever got enough chow.

When Jaeq Sharkey was fighting his way through to the championship of the United States Navy, he used to eat plenty and when he got out of the service he went into intensive eating and grew into the poundage of about 215.

Johnny Buckley, who is still his manager, saw in him when he left the Navy, a great prospect and he took him over.

"If you lay off the feed bag a little I think I can do something with you," Buckley told him, and as Sharkey was in need of funds, he took the tip without any argument.

Better Eater Than Babe Ruth.

"Without much exaggeration," Buckley said, "that fellow could eat more than Babe Ruth and the Babe is supposed to hold several records. He would eat steak for desert and what he could do to a couple of pies was [illegible]."

Buckley put him in a gymnasium, placed him on a light diet which Sharkey complained was starvation, and went out to get some work for him.

"I asked him if he had any choice about opponents and he told me to get any fight that would get us some money," Buckley said. "He said he didn't know much about any of the fighters and that he didn't care. His logic was that if he didn't have the makings of a fighter he should find it out quickly and if he couldn't be a fighter he'd have to look for some other kind of work."

Buckley was confident that he was a fighter because he had all the physical requirements and with them a confidence that was as cocky as any fighter ever had shown, but Buckley didn't want to overmatch him.

In 1924 Buckley matched him with Billy Muldoon, Pat Haee, Dan Lucas and Eddie Record and he won the fights by knockouts, the longest being seven rounds against Record. Those names don't sound much now and they didn't then, but they were good enough to give him the experience that he needed.

Won Other Good Tests.

He also won decisions in 1924 from Floyd Johnson, Homer Smith and Al Roberts and engaged in no-decision bouts against Young Jack Johnson and Charley Weinert and three years ago they were good tests for a youngster.

His record in 1924 wasn't all gold, however, as he later lost a 10-round decision in a return match with Record and was also beaten in 10 rounds by Jim Maloney after he had been floored five times.

When he began to get a little money in 1924 he decided to buy an automobile and he went shopping. He came back without a car but had a wife. He fell in love with a pretty Irish stenographer in one of the automobile sales agencies and about five days later he fought Romero Rojas, a tough South American, and was knocked out in the ninth round.

"That's a fine wedding present for the wife," Sharkey moaned, but he wasn't discouraged and he told Buckley that he had learned a good lesson.

Sharkey was asked later if there was any fluke, lucky punch or something like that in the victory of Rojas.

"No," he replied, "Just a good sock on the whiskers. I'll watch my whiskers after this."

To Attention In 1926.

The loss of Rojas set Sharkey back as far as his big money market value was concerned, but he kept on going on and in 1925, won decisions from Jack De Mave, Sully Montgomery, Jack Renault, George Cook, Johnny Risko, Jimmy Maloney and King Solomon. He lost 10-round decisions, however, to Charley Weinert and Bud Gorman.

He began to demand big attention in 1926 when he knocked out Joe Lawson and won from Eddie Hoffman, Solomon, Pat McCarthy, Gorman, George Godfrey, Harry Wills and Homer Smith.

Although he did not show any killing punch—or didn't use it if he had it, he was showing such promise that William Muldon, senior member of the New York Boxing Commission braved the opinion that he was destined to be the next champion.

Mexico, Mo., July 14.—Two of north Missouri's best golfers are 'teen age youngsters, both holders of their respective course records. Alf Elliott, jr., 16-years old junior member of the Mexico Country Club, and holder of the local record with a score of 33, three below par, and Eugene Ham, 19-year old Fulton caddymaster, and possessor of the best score over the course at the countyseat of the Kingdom of Callaway, with a score of 34, are the aces of their respective clubs.

The two meet frequently in intercity matches, the results of their meetings swinging first one way and then the other. The keeness of their competition, with the edge which they possess over the other members of their clubs, draws the galleries to follow their play.

Mrs. Mary Livasy of Kansas City returned home Tuesday after a month's visit with her daughters, Mrs. Dick Strong and Mrs. J. R. Braniger.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

LINCOLN NUNNALLY, elderly American chemist, is summoned to bet little jungle-brodered town of PORTO VERDE, in west central Brazil, by his young friend, VILAK, who is concerned for the safety of his beautiful cousin, ELISE MARBERRY, owner of a coffee plantation and other property near Porto Verde.

Several mysterious deaths have occurred, including that of TONY BARBETTA, one of Elise's foremen, and the girl herself has received warnings to get out of the country.

Vilak believes GAYLORD PRENTISS, a reticent and forbidding man, known to be an enemy of Elise, may be involved some way in the deaths. Accordingly, he and Nunnally set out for Prentiss' house, which is guarded by barbed wire fences and a vicious dog. Elise insists on joining them. Prentiss sets the dog on them and Vilak saves his companions' lives by chloroforming it into unconsciousness.

The next day Elise's two-year-old orphaned nephew is kidnaped. Vilak finds the trail and in a few hours they come upon the child, deserted by its captors and being cared for by a gang of railroad workmen. Returning with the baby, Vilak gravely tells Elise he has bad news for her.

Vilak tells Elise she and the child must leave on the next boat. He decides to close his barber shop and stick to the character of Attorney Davis. He, Elise and Nunnally are breakfasting when word is brought that a messenger has come to see her from WILSON, her overseer at VILLAPA.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY

"Take your hand away from your pistol, amigos. There are five soldiers in the bushes in back of you as well as the seven of us in front."

CHAPTER 20

Elise put down the fork with which she had been nibling at an omelet. "Send him in at once, please."

The maid hurried out. In a moment the door into the kitchen opened again. A brawny half-breed Brazilian, clad in thick heavy blue overalls and hip boots, stamped into the room, leaving great splotches of mud on the floor at every step. He strode up to Elise and, taking off his hat, stood awkardly before her.

"You have news for me, amigos?" she asked politely, when he did not speak for a moment.

"Yes, senhorita." He rubbed his thick fingers along his muddy trousers. "I come from your fazenda at Villapa. Meester Wilson have sent me. Tell me ride fast as can. He say tell you flood getting very bad Villapa. Say too he very sceek and can do not much, afraid much will be washed away. Wants you come quick. He not say, but he very, very sceek. I, Miguel, all others, think he die."

Elise rose from the table. "You'll have to excuse me," she said to her guests. "I'll have to go out to Villapa at once. It's been criminal of me to have left poor Wilson there ill and alone. Criminal." She called to Maria to have her horse made ready.

"Just a minute, Elise," Vilak said coolly. He gazed sharply at the mud-spattered messenger. "Are you sure this chap works on your fazenda?"

Her forehead knitted into a frown. "What do you mean? Of course he works on the fazenda?"

"You've seen him?"

She hesitated, then nodded. "I'm sure I've seen him. Several times. Anyway, even if I haven't, what difference would it make? I can't know every one of the 500 laborers at Villapa, can I, when they change so often? What on earth are you driving at?"

"Nothing, if you're sure you know your man. Only, it's faintly possible that this message may not be what it appears to be, and that you'd better let me go to Villapa in your stead."

Her black eyes flashed, her breath came quickly. "Vilak, there is one thing I won't let you do, and that is try to relieve me of what I consider my duties and responsibilities on the fazenda. I've taken orders from you in other things, but not there, that's final. My sister's husband and I used to quarrel about the same subject and merely succeeded in making matters uncomfortable for everybody. Let's don't you and I do it. I must go to Villapa. Myself."

Vilak tranquilly munched his cereal. "Very well. I won't argue with you. But in that case I insist on going with you. Perhaps it's just as well that we do go, for possibly we can get rifles there."

She schrugged her shoulders resignedly. "All right. If you must. But I don't think it at all necessary. You make me feel like a child."

"What will you do with Tinky?"

"I'll take him with me."

Vilak shook his head. "I wouldn't. Seems to me an unnecessary risk. I think for the time being he's safer in the house. Hannah can be depended on not to let him out of her sight. I've talked to her. She's more than an ordinary servant. She can be trusted. And if anything came up requiring physical strength, she could do far more than you. I say absolutely that it's safer to leave him here than to take him along."

"All right. I don't like to. But in a matter of this sort, I'll follow your advice. Because you know. If you say it's safe, I'll do it. And besides, I'll have Schwartz come over and stay here for the five or six hours I have to be away. If I could help it, I wouldn't leave him even for a minute. But I can't let Wilson die without lifting a finger to help him."

In a few moments, Elise, Vilak and the old man were once more on their horses, the chemist, to Vilak's surprise, having doggedly insisted on accompanying them, though his weariness was manifest in his withered face. The half-breed who had brought the message rode ahead. Vilak set the pace at a quick trot.

Elise nervously touched her horse, who was lingering to chew a choice bit of grass. "I'm glad I haven't a criminologist's mind. It would drive me crazy. You suspect everything you see, a house with its window-blinds drawn, a broken match, a rusty nail lying in the road. How you could put some hidden meaning into this message from Wilson is beyond me. If I were'nt your cousin, and polite, I'd call it fantastic."

He put a pellet of betel on his tongue. "I sincerely hope you're right," he said laconically.

He withdrew a bar of chocolate from his pocket and distributed it among his companions as a substitute for their uneaten breakfast. He himself took none of it, contenting himself with a second pellet of betel. Suddenly at a point where a narrow trail crossed the road, he looked down at the ground and pulled up his horse. "Humph," he murmured. "There's that unusual hoof-mark of Prentiss 'horse again. And there are the prints of two other horses running along with it this time." He straightened up in his saddle once more.

They traveled on in silence. At times the chemist felt inclined to speak either to Elise or Vilak but was checked by their expressions, one nervous, impatient, worried, the other cool and grimly watchful.

Their course for a short distance became a creek which the violent rains had flooded into a small river. They plunged in and followed it with some difficulty, the water occasionally rising past their stirrup. Here and there where the red volcanic rocks of the region formed a pool of clear water they could see curious fish sporting; here and there a fat ponderous turtle plodded along the bank. Once a great alligator lifted its head as they passed, menacing them with its red jaws. Vilak stopped to kill it with a well-directed bullet, for the creek was part of a fairly frequented highway and any of the gigantic lizards who strayed there were a distinct danger.

At length they left the stream and came out onto a muddy road again. The noise of their horses frightened a family of armadillos that evidently had been quietly reposing somewhere behind the thick palms, for they darted across the road in such panic that it was only by suddenly checking his horse that Vilak was able to avoid crushing them.

The road rose gradually up a low hill, fell to a ravine, then went up a short but fairly steep slope of another hill. As the riders rounded a bend, seven mounted soldiers came into view on the hilltop. They came slowly riding toward the Americans. Vilak's bushy, blond eyebrows lifted.

As the soldiers approached, he saw that they were garbed in tattered blue and red uniforms of a design much like that of the gendarmes. They were distinquished from the latter, however, by the fact that they all seemed white men, tanned by the equatorial sun. Their faces were distinctly unpleasant, the eyes of this one puffy with dissipation, the face of that one scarred with knife cuts or the ravages of some skin disease. Nevertheless, despite their unprepossessing appearance, they saluted the travelers amiably.

"Good day, senhors, senhorita," said the leader of the troopers, a tall, sallow man, with a great bristling mustache, who would have looked exactly like the typical Prussian office had his hair been blond instead of black. "You go to Villapa?"

Vilak took out a cigaret and pretended to search in his pocket for a match in order that his hand be near his pistol. "Yes, amigos," he answered, smiling. "They say at Villapa the water is very high. Do they tell the truth?"

The officer twisted one end of his mustache around his finger.

"Yes. The water is most high at Villapa. Take your hand away from your pistol, amigos. There are five soldiers in the bushes in back of you as well as the seven of us in front."

Vilak finds that the odds are overwhelming against them and that they are prisoners of murderous men.

Auto Runs 59 Miles on Gallon of Gas

Automobile engineers who worked for years in an effort to reduce gasoline consumption have found the solution in a marvelous invention that fits all cars. An actual test made by one of the engineers showed 59 miles on a gallon of gas. Thousands of car owners have already installed this new invention. They not only report amazing gas savings but are also surprised to find quicker pick-up, instant starting, smoother running motors and disappearance of carbon. E. Oliver 1041-3149 W. Winnebago St., Milwaukee, Wisc., for a limited time is offering a free device to those who will help introduce it. He also needs men everywhere to make over $100 weekly in their own territory taking care of local business. Write him at once for free sample and big money making offer.

Menus for the Family

By SISTER MARY

BREAKFAST—Apple sauce, cereal, cream, breadcrumb pancakes, sirup, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Baked rice and bacon, brown bread and butter sandwiches, butterscotch cookies, berries, with sugar and cream, lemonade.

DINNER—Jellied veal loaf, potato chips, buttered new peas, prune and cream cheese salad, peach tapioca pudding, milk, coffee.

With the exception of the peas, which will cook in 20 minutes, this dinner can all be prepared and left in the ice box until wanted.

The cookies suggested in the luncheon menu are the ice box variety, made up and formed into a roll the night before. The roll of dough is put into the refrigerator to chill and the cookies are made by cutting in thin slices with a sharp knife and baking as usual. The chilling and slicing is much less tedious than the rolling and cutting religiously adhered to by our grandmothers.

Baked Rice and Bacon.

Two cups stewed tomatoes, 1 small onion, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 2 whole cloves, 2 cups cooked rice, ½ pound sliced bacon, 1-3 cup stale coarse bread crumbs, 1 tablespoon butter.

Peel and mince onion. Cook tomatoes, onion, pepper and cloves closely covered for 20 minutes. Rub through a strainer. Broil bacon. Put a layer of rice in the bottom of a well-buttered baking dish, add a layer of bacon and continue layer for layer until all is used. Pour hot tomato puree over mixture. Cover top with crumbs, dot with butter and bake 25 minutes in a hot oven. Serve from baking dish.

Robeys to California.

Mrs. Otho Robey and children, LaRue, Helene and Billy, left last night for Los Angeles, Cal., where they will visit relatives until Sept. 1.

One Crash Doesn't Stop Farmer-Aviator

Norfolk, Neb., July 14.—It takes more than one crash to daunt J. L. Fisher, 55-year-old retired farmer, who runs a commercial airplane line in the vicinity of Creighton "for the fun of it," and Fisher has announced that he will continue his aviation activities immediately upon recovery from injuries which placed him in a Norfolk hospital.

Fisher is from Almena, Kan., and with his pilot, has been flying in northeast Nebraska for several weeks. He had taken the plane out alone about two weeks ago, and in a bad landing was seriously injured.

Road Overseer Work in Jackson to Stop

July 15 Is Final Day; End of Money Allotted For Work Is Cause of Discontinuance.

Independence, Mo., July 14.—All road overseer work in Jackson County has been ordered stopped July 15 by the county court. The overseers have been going at a high speed ever since they started their work in May. Practically all parts of every district have been gone over, and the court sees the end of the money allotted for the work and is stopping it now.

No Ground for Prison Strike, Board Asserts

Kansas Convicts Receive No Vindication For Recent Mutiny.—Warden Is Praised.

Topeka, Kan., July 14.—Convicts in the Kansas state penitentiary received no vindication for the recent mutiny when the board of investigation, after investigating the complaints which prisoners had given as the cause, reported to Governor Ben F. Paulen that there "was no ground for the strike."

The report included praise for Warden W. H. Mackey and found that paroles were granted in accordance with the law.

Clarinda Expects Fair to Be Largest

More Than Hundred Horses Will Compete; Exhibits Come In Fast.

Clarinda, Ia., July 13.—With so many exhibits already entered that fair officials have been forced to expand every department to care for late arrivals, prospects for the Clarinda fair, which opens Monday, July 25, are the greatest in the history of the exposition, Secretary Gerald Graff has announced.

More than a hundred horses will compete in the four day running and harness meet which begins on Tuesday and over a half score of the best auto race drivers in the country will clash in the gasoline speed card on Saturday.

All attendance records will be shattered this year if the demand for season tickets is an indication.

The automobile races, the first ever held on the Clarinda track, are attracting exceptional drivers and cars, including Buddy Strong in Cliff Woodbury's Frontenac, Spunk Collins, Canadian National champion in a German Mercedes, John DePalma in a Duesenberg straight eight and other pilots of International fame.

The competitions are open to any experienced driver who can qualify. An invitation is to be extended to the winning drivers of the Bedford and other Iowa meets to come here and compete against the crack professionals. Officials claim the Clarinda speed classis will be the biggest ever atempted on a county fair track in Iowa.

Chicago, July 14.—The recent downward trend in all grain prices on the board of trade continued today. Wheat led the way. The low quotations were largely due to the excellent weather in the spring wheat belt. The cash market was 1 cent lower.

Corn was under pressure from the opening, which was unchanged to ⅜ cent lower. The cash market was unchanged to ½ cent lower.

Oats opened unchanged to ⅛ cent lower with corn. The cash market was 1 cent off.

Provisions were unchanged.

Mexico Man Again Is Elks Grand Treasurer

Mexico, Mo., July 14.—At the annual grand lodge meeting of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, held this week in Cincinnati, O., Col. Fred A. Morris of this city has been re-elected grand treasurer.

Long identified with activities of the order, Col. Morris is the "father" of the Missouri Elks Association, and was its first president. Head of his own lodge for three times, he has held a succession of state and national offices, twice as district deputy for Missouri, East, and successively Esteemed Leading Knight, Esteemed Loyal Knight and Esteemed Lecturing Knight.

Morris was first elected as national treasurer of the organization at the Chicago convention in 1926.

County School Head May Be Ineligible

Carthage, Mo., July 14.—Quo warranto proceedings protesting the right of J. T. Hodge to serve in the position of county superintendent of schools of Barry County, a position to which he was elected last spring, have been filed in circuit court by W. E. Hankins, present county superintendent.

Hodge's right to take the office is contested for the reason that he allowed his certificate to teach to lapse a few days before the election was held.

Hankins, plaintiff in the suit, has been county superintendent for sixteen years. Should he win the suit he will hold office another four years.

1927 WEATHER LIKE TO 1816

LONG DISTANCE FORECASTER POINTS OUT DUPLICATION.

THIS IS CYCLE '55.8'

Heavy Frosts Predicted For Early Part Of July.—Failed To Materialize, However.

Washington, July 14.—Oceanic changes have a material effect on future weather conditions, as demonstrated by the recent change in temperatures in the great ocean currents of warm and cold water, in the opinion of Herbert Janvrin Brown, long distance weather forecaster.

That these changes, caused by the sun reaching the maximum sun spot period, have had effect on the climatic conditions for the past six months throughout the northern hemisphere, is shown in the serious weather fluctuations.

"Floods, tornadoes, drought, hailstorms, cloudbursts, heavy rains and cold waves have all taken toll, and the ultimate effects from these conditions of the ocean cannot yet be accurately forecast,' 'Brown said.

The influence of ocean currents of the winds, which in turn have their effect on climatic conditions, are responsible, in part, for the unusual weather for the first six months of 1927, which is comparable to that of 1816, known as the year without a summer, he believes.

Arctic Water Comes South.

Brown points out that "with the retreat from the North and East of the warm water area of the Eastern Arctic will be a southerly advance of Arctic water.

"In the South Atlantic the cold water area already has shown a marked expansion, while Anaretic water encircling the globe will exercise powerfully its cold dominating influence in the southern hemisphere," he said.

The temperate zone cold water areas he said, still remain dominant in their zones, leaving the tropical waters and those of the semi-enclosed bordering seas to bear the brunt of maintaining the warm winds and thereby the humidities of the continental areas.

"The inferences are for cold winters and generally heavy winter precipitation widely across the North Temperate Zones," Brown believes. He forecasts a resumption of cold waves before the beginning of fall, although the intensity or exact location cannot yet be determined.

To Cause Dry Weather.

Persistence of inshore cold water currents will have their effect on weather, he points out. These will cause dry weather along the northern and eastern Continental seaboards.

Over the seas the weakening of the warm water areas points toward a reduction in the force and number of storm-carrying cyclonic low pressure areas, which, Brown says, enter the United States from the northwest and Europe through the Icelandic areas.

Reduction of barometrical gradients between cold and warm water areas will inevitably see a slackening of the winds rotating clockwise around the North Atlantic cold water area, which are never very strong.

This, in turn, will cause a reduction in their moisture carrying function, which, according to his calculations, Brown predicts will mean a reduction of rainfall in Central and Southern Europe and in the Atlantic Seabord and Eastern Gulf States.

Hot And Dry In Valley.

"It follows inevitably that there will be periods in which southerly winds slow moving, during July and August, will bring high temperatures and dry weather into the Mississippi valley, which may have to depend for its principal precipitation on casual thunderstorms," Brown prophesies.

How 1927, which so far has been a year marked with violent weather contrasts, has duplicated 1816, known as the year without a summer, was pointed out.

Comparing weather records, the year 1816 was one of the most remarkable in history, notably for its severe cold waves and heavy snows. It started early in the fall of 1815 and lasted late into the following spring.

Weather, according to Brown, comes in cycles of so many years. He points out that what is known as the "55.8" cycle, which occurred in the severe winter of 1816, became apparent again in the winter of 1926-27.

As early as January 1 of this year, Brown forecast a return of the cycle with its subsequent severe weather conditions. His prediction at that time said:

"The famous year 1816, 'the year without a summer,' fell in that cycle. The years 1871 and 1872 are included in the cycle, and it will be seen that the winter of 1926-27 and the crop season of 1927 are included in the period of its return.

"The present winter and its succeeding year also come into the remarkable cycle, developed by Abbe Gabriel, the lunar solar cycle of 186 years, which refers back to the famous winter of 1740 and its still more famous prototype of 1553."

Predicted Heavy Frosts.

Demonstrating the effect of the "weather cycle," Brown points out that navigation on the Great Lakes this winter was practically closed at the Soo Canal November 30. The earliest closing date on record was November 24, 1872, which date was included in the cycle. The average date of closing has been December 15.

Forecasting that the periods from June 28 to July 2 and July 7 to July 11 would bring heavy frosts over certain sections of the country, Brown said "these determinations are the result of long and careful calculation.

"June and July dates are comparable with the phenomena of the same order in the year 1816. In that memorable year, a violent snowstorm with low temperatures raged north of the Ohio and the Potomac from June 17 to 19. It was accompanied by killing frosts even in areas farther south not visited by the storm.

"In that year the last week of June saw a killing frost across the north, while the night of July 4 witnessed freezing temperatures and the formation of ice north from the Ohio and the Potomac and from the Atlantic Seaboard west to Fort Dearborn, now the site of the city of Chicago."

Horticultural Meet at Mountain Grove

July 29 Is Date Set For State Society To Convene At Fruit Experiment Station.

Mountain Grove, Mo., July 14.—The Missouri State Horticultural Society will hold its summer meeting at the Fruit Experiment Station here Friday, July 29. The selection is in keeping with the custom of the society to hold a summer meeting each year at some point in the Ozarks. The plan of this is to give the growers the benefit of an outing in Missouri's play ground as well as give them benefits of authoritative information of their problems.

The meeting will consist in the inspection in the morning of the experimental plots, some of which have been carried on by the fruit station since its inception and some of which are or more recent origin.

The afternoon session will consist of general discussions of the problems which are confronting fruit growers of the state. Problems relating to productions, and questions about the future of the Fruit Experiment Station at Mountain Grove, about the Horticultural Department at Columbia, and about the fruit industry of the entire state will be discussed.

F. W. Faurot, director of the Fruit Experiment Station, and T. J. Talbert, head of the department of horticulture at Columbia, will lead the discussion and will attempt to answer any questions that may be raised. Extension agents from the College of Agriculture and horticultural agents of the railroads of Missouri will be present.
